“ Apa, you may not have known it, but taught me so much about life. Thank you for teaching me about family. Thank you for teaching me about strength. Thank you for teaching me what it is to fight. Thank you for teaching me how powerful a smile is in any kind of situation. I'll always remember your vibrant, spunky spirit. I'll always remember going over to John's apartment in the summer and watching the Discovery Channel and Jose Luis Sin Censura with you. I'll always remember your hats. I'll always remember when we sat in the car together and cried when you went with my dad to drop me off at LMU during my freshman year. I love you.
